Dangerous?

No!

You can choose which information others can see.

You can keep in touch with old friends, as well as family who live far away.

Yes!

You don't always know who you're writing to.

It is difficult to know whether information is true or fake.

How many people do you think use Facebook?

What information do you think is OK to publish for all to see? What would you rather not share?

What can you do to make Facebook safer?
